THE BOTTLE MUSE

1892-93 Fan Finds its Final Home

The 1893 Columbia Exposition Fan is home at the National Bottle Museum from its restoration at the Williamstown Art Conversation Center in Williamstown, Ma. This is a significant addition to the museum because of the unique recognition of Saratoga Vichy Water stamped on it which included a Saratoga Vichy water bottle. At the Expo Saratoga Vichy won a gold medal. Come to the museum to see the new exhibit And solve a mystery!

This photo was taken at the NYS Golden Jubilee in 1946. Our fan was "spotted" on the desk by one sharp eyed director!

From the Desk of the Executive Director, Chris Leonard

Dear Friends,

Big things are happening at the National Bottle Museum! So far this year we've added or improved 8 exhibits including a conserved Saratoga Vichy hand-fan from the 1893 Columbian Exposition; seltzer siphons with a 1920s seltzer bottle filler; the Art of Barber Bottles; whimsies; and poisons.

And bigger changes are coming. In 2026, we will launch a capital improvement campaign to enclose and heat the 3rd floor of the museum. The 3rd floor of our 1901 building has never been insulated nor supported by HVAC. Renovating the floor will greatly increase storage, allowing us to expand our collection, and to turn a 2nd floor storage area into new exhibit space.

Your donations, membership, and other support have made this possible. Come to the museum soon to see all the improvements.

And join us on Sunday, May 31, for the 46th Annual Saratoga Antique Bottle Show & Sale. The Belmont Stakes is being held Saratoga on the first weekend in June, our usual show date. As this will drive up hotel prices and strain local services, we moved the show to Sunday May 31, to create a better experience for our dealers and patrons. Contracts for the show are now available.

Hope to see you soon!
- Chris

Chris will be a guest speaker at the Saratoga County History Center at Brookside February 7 at 3:00 pm for their Historian Tea Talks. He will address the 50 year history and his one year anniversary at the museum.

FROM BOARD PRESIDENT, ELLIE DILLON

Dear Members and Friends,

This fall has seen a whirlwind of changes at the museum! Board members, volunteers, intern and Executive Director have worked tirelessly with dedication, creativity and vision.

And this work has paid off.

The new year begins with a fresh look from a deep clean, purging of unnecessary items and the creation of brand new exhibits. The gift shop expansion now features unique glass items, clothing and hats as well as unusual gifts. The Artists' Space on the second floor displays exhibits year round, giving visitors an opportunity to meet the artists at the artist receptions. Your visit will be an enjoyable experience on many levels. 2026 looks to be an exciting year. Join and drop in!

STATE BOTTLE— New York

The emerald green Saratoga Type pint mineral water is New York State's representation in the 50 States exhibit. It is embossed with a large E and "Empire Spring Co. Saratoga NY". The back simply says Empire Water. This Saratoga type style is typical of the Saratoga County region.

The Empire Spring was discovered in 1793 and the waters were known for its naturally sweet taste. In 1866 the Empire Springs and Congress Spring merged. The Mount Pleasant Glassworks in Greenfield moved their bottle making plant closer to Saratoga and the springs and the factory became the Congressville Glassworks. The Congressville Glassworks stayed in operation until 1910 when the effects of the automatic bottling machine made their workforce of glass blowers obsolete. This "Congressville green" is on display at the National Bottle Museum.

The Weller Trail—Roy Topka

SCHENECTADY'S MOST PROLIFIC 19th CENTURY BOTTLER: GEORGE WELLER

Starting with the purchase of John Lake's Soda Water business in 1859 by James Rodger's, the firm of Rodger's & Weller in Schenectady, NY lasted into 1866. By 1867 George Weller was in business by himself. In 1898 John Stock had taken over the business running it well into the 20th century. Roy looks so sad because he now has to re-pack this display and bring back to the museum!

Spring cleaning came early this year!!

This January, the Board, Executive Director and volunteers decided to not only give the museum a deep clean, but to change up and rearrange exhibits. But wait... lets not stop there,.They also tackled the office and downstairs storage spaces. The dedication of this group is amazing. The museum was closed January 2nd to January 20th for this endeavor!

New Exhibits New Spaces and New Merchandise!

The National Bottle Museum, again, has taken its show on the road. The museum participated in the Great Places and Spaces event at the New York State Museum this January.. The museum continues to reach out to educate the public on the historical importance of bottle making. Look for the return of the Saratoga History of Bottles and Mineral Water display at the Gideon Putnam this Spring!

Our annual Volunteer of the Year Award went to Phil Bernnard. Phil has made a significant impact within the bottle collecting community with years of supporting regional bottle shows and compiling and mailing out informational packets. His road trips to acquire collections has expanded the museums inventory. He has effectively educated and inspired others to appreciate the history behind the artifacts and books. And on a personal note Phil has never said no to urgent calls to cover the museum on short notice. This commitment is sincerely appreciated.

So It is with great pleasure we present Phil the 2025 Volunteer of the year Award.
